He joined the firm as a financial advisor the following year. Since 2008, he has been responsible for managing all aspects of the financial planning and investment process for Savant's clients. Forbes is an American business magazine and a leading source for reliable business news and financial information. Its list of America's Top Next-Generation Wealth Advisors was developed by SHOOK Research and represents individuals born in 1980 or later who are the top-performing young advisors at their respective firms.

"We are thrilled for Jake being named to the #13 spot on the list of American's Top Next-Generation Wealth Advisors," said Brent Brodeski, CEO of Savant. "Jake's goal is to develop strong relationships with his clients. He genuinely cares for people and focuses on making the complexities of financial planning clear and simple for his clients. Jake and the entire Savant team are what makes us one of the leading Registered Investment Advisory firms in the nation."

With more than 19,500 nominations received, 500 millennial advisors were chosen based on a minimum of four years relevant experience and acceptable compliance records. In addition, telephone and in-person interviews were conducted to examine best practices such as client service models, investing process, business types, and leveraging team and firm resources. Credentials, revenue, and assets under management were also considered. Neither Forbes nor SHOOK received a fee in exchange for rankings.
