Qualified Pension Administrator (QPA)

The Qualified Pension Administrator (QPA) credential was created by ASPPA to recognize professionals who are qualified to perform the technical and administrative functions of qualified plan administration. QPAs assist employers, actuaries, and consultants in performing functions such as determination of eligibility benefits, computation of benefits, plan recordkeeping, trust accounting and disclosure, and compliance requirements. A minimum of two years’ experience in retirement plan related matters is required along with completion of ASPPA’s QPA examination series to be a candidate for this credential.

Qualified Plan Financial Consultant (QPFC)

QPFC is the professional credential for financial professionals who sell, advise, market or support qualified retirement plans. The QPFC program provides an understanding of general retirement planning concepts, terminology, distinctive features of qualified plans and the role of retirement plan professionals. QPFC is not an entry-level credential. A candidate will be expected to demonstrate a general proficiency of plan administration, compliance, investment, fiduciary, and ethics issues. A minimum of two years’ experience in retirement plan related matters is required along with completion of ASPPA’s QPA examination series to be a candidate for this credential.

Retirement Plans Associate (RPA®)

The Retirement Plans Associate (RPA) designation is earned by individuals in the group benefits arena who complete the extensive four-course curriculum and successfully pass the examination.

Retirement Income Certified Professional (RICP®)

The Retirement Income Certified Professional (RICP) designation is offered and recognized by the American College. Candidates must have three (3) years of industry experience and pass three self-paced courses covering the full retirement planning process.
